Internet Access Policy

The Clinton Public Library (CPL) makes Internet resources accessible to all patrons. Sessions are 90 minutes per day. Extensions may be granted by request.

CPL does not monitor and has no control over the information available through the Internet and cannot be held responsible for its content. Library patrons use the Internet at their own discretion and risk. The public is prohibited from downloading illegal content.

All Internet resources accessible through library channels are provided equally to all adult (age 18 and older) library users. Parents and guardians - neither the library nor its staff - are responsible for the Internet information selected and/or accessed by their children. Only parents and guardians may restrict their children - and only their children - from access to Internet resources accessible through library channels. Parents are advised to supervise their children's Internet sessions. The reading and viewing activity of children is ultimately the responsibility of the parents or guardians.

CPL follows state and federal law regarding privacy of library users' records and information. The library will release records, including those relating to Internet usage, only as required by law. When a computer session is ended, all information about that session is programmed to be deleted. The library does not, as part of its regular practice, retrieve any information, including websites visited, passwords, credit card numbers, or any other information a patron has entered. At the end of the business day, all computer use and reservation records are normally erased.
